Fashion Sustainability Mission : Digital Knits Design Tour

Date: 6 Aug 2022

Venue: Chemtex Technology Centre

To follow up on the Fashion Summit (HK) 2021 panel discussion topic “Are we failing the future of fashion with the lack of sustainability education?” Fashion Summit (HK) had organized the onsite sustainability education to the young students in Aug 2022.

A group of secondary and tertiary students from different schools and universities toured a digital knitting showroom located in the Kwai Shing Industrial Building.

During their visit, they witnessed a digital knitting demonstration by a fashion designer and a knitting machine operator. The students learned how the fashion industry can use 3D design and digitalisation technologies to produce digital knitting fashion products.

Seminar of Eco-Friendly Packaging in Fashion

Date: 24 Aug 2022
Venue: The Mills Fabrica
Attendees: 104

In 2016, in the EU alone, total packaging waste amounted to nearly 87 million tonnes (much of which was plastic), which is about 170 kg per person! That's an enormous (and growing) amount of often non-recyclable waste.

It turns out fashion is no stranger to the single-use plastic problem: with the rise of online shopping and the increase in amounts of clothes purchased every year, particularly during the pandemics, we've also seen an increase in plastic packaging used by brands.

Fashion Summit (HK) organized a seminar of at The Mills Fabrica to discuss on Eco-Friendly Packaging in Fashion. 12 Professionals from various sectors shared their views on sustainable fashion packaging, challenges faced during packaging transformation, policies and regulations, and successful packaging transformation examples. The aim of the seminar was to promote sustainable fashion development through public education.

Sustainability Tour on Wetlands Conservation

Date: 24 Feb 2023

Venue: WWF-Hong Kong Mai Po Nature Reserve

The 75th session of the United Nations (UN) General Assembly in 2021 adopted a resolution co-sponsored by 75 Member States proclaiming 2 February of each year, the date of adoption of the Convention on Wetlands, as World Wetlands Day observed by the UN. Contributing to 75 SDG indicators, wetlands are one of the most world's valuable ecosystems and a nature-based solution for mitigating emissions through their massive carbon storage capacities, protecting communities and ecosystems from climate impacts, and reversing biodiversity loss.

To raise awareness of the urgency to protect and conserve wetlands for their critical benefits for human and planetary health. Fashion Summit (HK) organised a sustainability education for the public on 24 Feb 2023 at Mai Po nature Reserve. Attendees encountered different types of wetlands such as gei wai , fishpond, mangrove, reedbed and freshwater marsh and learnt the importance of biodiversity and wetlands conservation.

Fashion Summit (HK) study tour to Stockholm, Sweden (11-15 June 2023)

Sweden is a country that is internationally known for design and fashion. Sustainable fashion design is embedded in the DNA of the Swedish. It was one of the countries with the highest spending on clothing in Europe. Stockholm city is home to some of the biggest dernier cri (the latest fashion) names like H&M, Acne, etc. highly praised for its inimitable styles and ecological fabric.

The Trade & Invest Commissioner of Business Sweden, participated Fashion Summit (HK) 2021 conference, and she wanted to cooperate with Fashion Summit (HK) project and proposed to organise a study tour to join the Sweden Stockholm Fashion Week at the end of August 2022 to get in touch and have intelligence exchange with the international fashion brands, designers, related organisations to have an in-depth exploration of the Fashion Design & Art, Contemporary Creativity, and Sustainable Future for the coming Fashion Summit event in Hong Kong.

The charm of Swedish Fashion fits perfectly into the Fashion Summit (HK). So, the project team accepted the invitation from Business Sweden and planned a study tour to embrace the rhythm of Swedish fashion culture, history, education, and metropolitan design.

Due to the persistence of COVID-19, the Sweden Study tour was postponed to 11th – 15th June 2023. The Hong Kong delegation of members include fashion industrials, HK fashion designers, NGO members, project team members.

Summary of the Fashion Summit (HK) 2023 Sweden Study Tour

Hong Kong delegation has a valuable opportunity to meet with the Swedish representatives from Sweden's fashion, design, recycled fiber, textile & fashion associations to exchange sustainability intelligence & experience in both Hong Kong and Sweden during the high-level Roundtable meeting in the Business Sweden Stockholm office. HK delegation also learned about the essence of Investment and new business start-ups in Sweden.

The delegation was led to visit the following organisations in Stockholm & Borås:

- A new fibre producer, “Tree to Textile”,
- The famous “Stockholm Fashion District”, a unique community and business venue with digital & physical showrooms of fashion, accessories, and footwear
- A sustainable fashion startup by young designers and fashioners, the XV Production
- A Swedish outdoor brand Revolution Race of sustainable products

It is amazing to visit Borås, the City of Textile, as well as the Textile Fashion Centre bearing both the Swedish School of Textiles and the Textile Museum of Sweden to explore the history, the Innovative and Novel textile and fashion development in Sweden.

Follow Up

One Swedish sustainable designer Mr. Roei Derhi who sat in the roundtable meeting was invited to join the Fashion Summit (HK) 2023 International Fashion Show on 12 Oct 2023 to share his design on stage.

Sustainability Tour on Ocean Conservation

Date: 28 July 2023

Venue: WWF-Hong Kong Hoi Ha Marine Life Centre

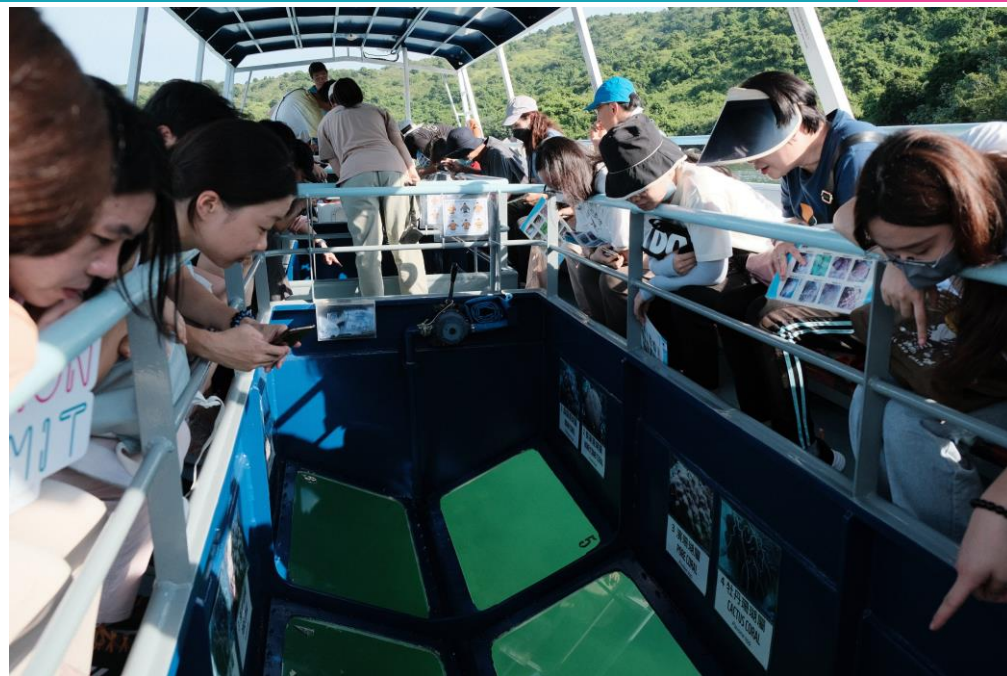

It has been estimated that 1.4 million trillion microfibres are currently in the oceans and if the fashion industry continues in a business-as-usual scenario, between 2015 and 2050, 22 million tonnes of microfibres will enter our oceans. Recent research shows that plastics emit powerful greenhouse gases as they degrade and, over time, give off more and more gas, so the plastics accumulating in our oceans represent a vast, uncontrollable source of future emissions, as well as posing a danger to our marine ecosystems and human health.

Fashion Summit (HK) is Asia's leading sustainability fashion herald, we took the lead to draw the attention of the fashion industry, the designers, brands, and the fashion consumers on the importance of fashion lifecycle towards the ocean lifespan. Fashion Summit (HK) had organised a sustainability education tour for the public on the Ocean ecosystem. The tour included an introduction of Hoi Ha Marine Life Centre, Glass bottom boat tour of the current sea pollution , Upcycling experience on marine wastes to fashion, so that the attendees learnt the importance of Ocean conservation.
